We plan for college, marriage,
 a baby & retirement...
 but we don't prepare for the end of life.

Let's change that!

It's As Simple As 1, 2, 3

1. Decide who you trust to speak for you if you cannot. Think about what things are important to you as you consider your medical care.
2. Discuss your wishes with your loved ones & healthcare providers
3. Document your wishes in the form of advance directives

Who Should Attend?

Everyone . . . healthcare providers, social workers, counselors, funeral home directors, faith and community leaders, and anyone in the community-at-large needing to know how to begin conversations about end of life care wishes.

Upon completion of this program, attendees should be able to:

- Review the importance of having conversations before a crisis
- Discuss talking to their family and physicians about end of life care wishes
- Analyze how to document those wishes

See back panel for fees and registration
